Davis retiring 40-year career ending

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

B.J. Davis may have grown up in the Ozark Mountain country of Missouri, but the Metro East will always be "home." Davis, the provost of Belleville Area College's Granite City and Red Bud campuses, will retire at the end of this month after more than 40 years in education. "I can't think of a better way to end a career than to come back home and be the administrator of the college," Davis said.

To Davis — born in Springfield, Mo., and now residing in Edwardsville — Granite City will always be "home." "Our friends and family and all those we hold dear are here," Davis said. "The community has been very supportive over the years."

Davis began his education career in 1953 as a teacher in Chadwick, Mo., just south of Springfield, making $2,500 a year teaching and acting as a sponsor to 22 student activity groups. After brief stints in Salem, Mo. (where he received a $500-a-year raise) and as a principal in Mexico, Mo., Davis took a job as assistant principal at Coolidge Junior High School in Granite City and soon was named principal at the old Central (See DAVIS, Page 6A)

Unlicensed stand stirs controversy

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Mike and Karen Dixon are attempting a feat with which even Santa Claus has trouble. The Dixons are trying to obtain after-the-fact permission from the Granite City Council to open a Tropical Sno shaved ice stand on Victory Drive near its intersection with Nameoki Road, behind the DISCO Beauty Supply building.

The matter is on the agenda for Tuesday night's City Council meeting. Mike and Karen Dixon have requested permission to address the council on the matter.

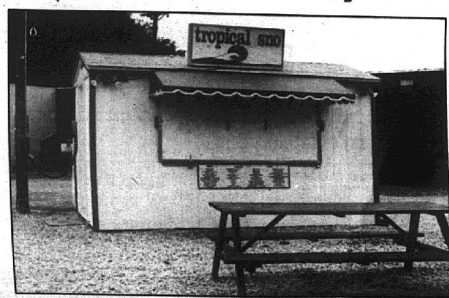

While a snow cone stand may seem relatively harmless to some, city officials say they have some serious problems with the proposition — and with the Dixons.

One problem is the 6-by-15-foot temporary-type building from which the business operates. Zoning Administrator Glen Hollis said.

"The city hasn't allowed them (temporary structures) for several years. They have no foundation and no sanitary facilities," Hollis said. "I think even Santa Claus has problems (getting permission to place a temporary structure) when he comes to town."

"I couldn't issue a permit if I wanted to. Temporary buildings need City Council approval," Hollis said.

The Dixons have been operating the business for the past few weeks without a business license. That fact caused a stir at the June 6 City Council meeting.

This unlicensed business in Granite City, a Tropical Sno stand owned by Mike and Karen Dixon, has some city officials asking questions about the way the city does business.

"Why is this business still operating without a license?" 7th Ward Alderman Kim Affolter said.

City Inspector Vince Scruton said that the Dixons have applied for a business license but that the building had not yet been inspected.

City Attorney Leo Konzen said that there are "a number of issues" of dispute between the city and the Dixons. He said the disputes have been ongoing for at least a year and that several issues still need to be addressed. Affolter said allowing the Dixons — and other businesses to operate without a license "sends mixed messages" and is "unfair to businesses that go through proper channels."

"How can City Clerk Judy Whitaker force businesses to renew their licenses when we've got people throwing up buildings on vacant property and opening a business without one?" Affolter asked. "If a mistake has been made, correct it. Otherwise, we are setting an undesirable precedent."

Whitaker said at the June 6 meeting that 536 businesses had paid for and received business licenses. (See STAND, Page 10A)

Venice to tackle trash problems

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A special Venice City Council meeting has been called for 7 p.m. Monday to discuss and possibly vote on the purchase of new city vehicles.

The council has been debating how to deal with trash removal since the city's garbage truck broke down several weeks ago. Since then the city has been using leased trucks and front-end loaders to pick up refuse.

The city had considered purchasing used garbage trucks, but decided against that after city officials inspected available vehicles. A new garbage truck will cost up to $80,000.

Part of the city's problem is how to pay for a new vehicle. One possibility suggested was imposing a trash collection fee of between $5 and $10 per month.

Mayor Tyrone Echols said he was not sure if action would be taken at the meeting.

The council will also discuss purchasing new police vehicles. (See TRASH, Page 10A)

Kraus, Gentz share honor in softball

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

Throughout the season, softball players Kym Kraus of Belleville West and Erin Gentz of Westlin combined powerful hitting with solid defense.

Now they have something else in common.

Kraus, a senior shortstop, was named the Journals Class AA Player of the Year, while Gentz, a sophomore catcher, earned Player of the Year honors in Class A.

"My hitting improved a lot since last year," said Kraus, who edged Belleville East pitcher-shortstop Stacy Siebert in voting among large-school coaches.

"Working out over the winter helped. I didn't take batting lessons. I just swung the bat every once in a while," she said. While Kraus had already gained a reputation as one of the area's top players, Gentz was virtually unknown outside of her own school.

But with a .435 batting average, she made a name for herself.

Sports spotlight

Kym Kraus and Erin Gentz

"I was surprised because I'm only a sophomore and there were a lot of good players I saw this year," Gentz said. "I never even dreamed of being named to the all-area team, let alone being named Player of the Year."

Stories on Gentz and Kraus will appear in Wednesday's

Journals, which will feature a complete list of the newspaper's first-team all-area players in both classes.

Not surprisingly, Class AA champion Belleville East dominates the large-school team, while players from six different schools are on the Class A squad.

Man charged in shooting in Venice

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A Madison man has been charged with two felonies following a drive-by shooting in the Lee Wright Homes housing project in Venice.

Travis Gates, 19, of the 100 block of Carver Street, Madison, was charged Wednesday with aggravated discharge of a firearm and not having a valid Firearm Owners Identification card. He is in custody at the Madison County jail, with bond set at $250,000.

According to police reports, at about 11:30 p.m. Monday, police received a report that shots were being fired in the Circle Drive area of Lee Wright Homes. When police arrived, they found the driver's side windows shot out of two parked vehicles.

According to witnesses at the scene, Gates and another man had an argument and fistfight earlier that evening. After the fight, Gates left in a black Geo Tracker, and the other man said he was going to get a gun and return.

According to the witnesses, a short time later Gates returned in the Tracker, followed by a white van. The vehicles went through the housing project and returned to where witnesses (See SHOOTING, Page 10A)

Health fund for teachers set

The health insurance fund for retired teachers in Illinois will be saved under a proposal that is now before the governor. House Bill 323, already passed by the Senate, has now also passed the House.

"We have been promising the teachers of this state all session that our main goal was to reach an agreement that assures retired teachers their health insurance will continue, without overburdening active teachers," said Ralph Dunn, R-DuQuoin. "I'm very pleased we were able to do our job and it's now up to the governor, who hasn't made a commitment, but we are very optimistic."

The legislation states that the TTS health insurance plan would become self-insured by the Department of Central Management Services by Jan. 1, 1996. Retirees would have access to the preferred provider plan established by CMS for the state employees group insurance plan.

State construction delays may overload county jails

SPRINGFIELD — A delay in construction that would add state prison beds is expected to put more pressure on county jails and reduce inmate working crews next spring.

Gov. Jim Edgar said he hopes the public will put pressure on Democratic lawmakers to clear the way for a capital bond authorization in the fall legislative session to allow the construction.

Democrats in the Legislature refused during the spring session to pass the bond authorization needed to fund the additional jail space and other state construction projects.

Funding for about 2,800 additional prison cells — at two new work camps and new cellblocks at existing correctional centers — was included in the governor's budget plan for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

However, even if the money for the construction work is approved in the fall, the state prison system is expected to reach twice its capacity by next June, Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell said.

An entire construction season has been lost, Howell said. Illinois already has the most crowded prison system in the nation, Howell said, and the lack of additional space could force the department to refuse to accept any more prisoners from county jails or could prompt a federal judge to intervene and order early releases.

The only other option would be to use areas like gyms for beds, but that could result in increased violence and staff reassignments that would eliminate prisoner work crews. Staff members supervising work crews, such as the group of Vandalia inmates who fought recent flooding in Jersey County, could be reassigned to duty in the institutions, Howell said.

Jersey County Sheriff Frank Yocom agreed the potential backup in the state prison system next spring "will cause problems everywhere."

Yocom said his jail is often at capacity. He also said it would be "a shame" if inmate labor was lost during emergency situations like the flood.

Edgar ripped Democrats in the Legislature who supported longer prison terms through truth-in-sentencing laws but "won't support money for more prison cells."

Democrats refused to support approval of the capital bond authorization, contending that House Republicans refused to specify all the projects the money would fund.

Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, who had pushed for the longer sentences, argued that Republicans blocked his proposal for a $500 million bond issue referendum for additional prison construction.

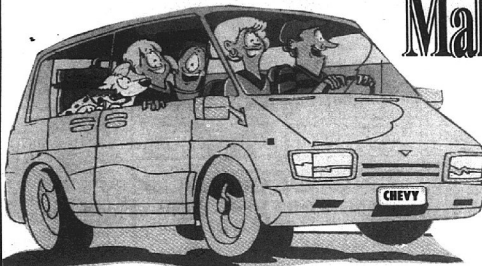

Hoffman said House Republicans never offered the option of voting for just the prison construction bonds.

"Because I think they wanted to make it an issue,"

Car auction set for Saturday

More than 200 vehicles will be auctioned off Saturday, June 24, by the state at the surplus property location, 1920 S. 11th St., Springfield.

"The state will auction off various police and agency vehicles," stated Michael S. Schwartz, director of the Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS). "This is a good opportunity for members of the public to obtain reasonably priced, pre-owned vehicles. And, at the same time, it provides money for the state's general revenue fund."

The vehicles will be available for inspection from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday, June 22 and 23, and up to the time of the sale on Saturday.

To participate in the auction, bidders must register on the day of the sale. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m.; the auction begins at 9 a.m.

Bidders can pay for purchases with cash, certified check, money order or traveler's checks in increments of $100 or less. Business or personal checks also are accepted, but all checks must be supported by a letter of credit from a financial institution.

Shimkus may run for Congress

Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus has a corner on Republican county chairmen as he closes in on a second bid for the 20th Congressional District seat.

Shimkus announced Tuesday that 15 of the 19 county chairmen in the district have joined his steering committee.

"Knowing I have their support brings me one important step closer to announcing my candidacy," he said.

Shimkus ran unopposed in the 1992 Republican primary after getting the support of party leaders across the district. He lost to incumbent Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Springfield, who intends to run for the U.S. Senate next year.

Durbin's decision to vacate his seat has attracted the interest of five potential Republican candidates who could seek the nomination in next March's primary election.

The GOP party chairmen backing Shimkus include: Madison County's Ed Ragdale, Macoupin County's Dick Mottershaw, Jersey County's Bill Rolando, Greene County's Larry Funk and Calhoun County's Brett Hagen.

"I think John would definitely be the front-runner and everyone else would have to catch up with him," Rolando said, adding that Shimkus has "been at a lot of (Republican) events over the last four years and he's kept in touch with people. I know he's had a lot of contact with me."

However, he said, it's unlikely Shimkus will enjoy an uncontested primary as he did in 1992. "I think it will be at least a three-way race and possibly a five-way race," Rolando said.

Shimkus' committee does not include the chairmen of Sangamon and Morgan counties, which have been home to congressmen from the district for several decades and have strong local Republican organizations.

At least three men who live in Sangamon County have expressed interest in the race, including Durbin's 1994 challenger Bill Owens, Sangamon County Circuit Clerk Carl Oblinger and Jim Howard, a veteran radio news reporter who recently worked for state Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka.

"I know there's a lot of pride in Sangamon County about the congressman usually being from this area, but I don't know what (Sangamon GOP leaders) will do this time," Rolando said.

Shimkus said Sangamon County party leaders may be waiting to see whether Bill Roberts, formerly a federal prosecutor and Sangamon County state's attorney, expresses interest in a race.

Tips on the use of

Pest Controls

from the experts at

FRANK'S®

No matter how good a gardener you are, there will occasionally be problems that will pop up, despite your best efforts. And those problems play no favorites. They'll come around and disturb every gardener, from those who can create living masterpieces to the ones who have a tough time getting sod to take root. What are the problems? Garden pests.

These can range from grubs in your lawn, leaf miners on your birch tree to worms in your apples. An army of pests is out there just waiting to make your life miserable. Or, perhaps they already have.

Many times you can sit back and let nature take care of the problem, but not always. When the time comes to take action, you can win the battle against these enemies rather easily. First it takes a visit to a Frank's store. There you'll find just about anything you'll need to deal with the pests that plague your prized petunias to the grubs that gorge on your grass.

At Frank's, you'll find only the finest quality pest controls. Following is a list of the types of products available.

Dursban Insect Spray. This controls insects on lawns and ornamentals.

Wasp & Hornet Killer. Does just what the name implies. It kills on contact from up to twenty feet away.

Home Insect Control. Does a number on roaches, ants, spiders, crickets, silverfish and other annoying pests that invade your home.

Rose & Floral Insect Spray. Protects roses, ornamentals, flowers, trees, shrubs and vegetables.

Diazinon. Kills pests in the lawn, soil and garden.

Malathion. Controls insects on lawns and ornamentals.

When you stroll the aisle of Frank's in search of the correct pest control, you'll encounter terms such as systemic, contact, residual, etc. What does it all mean? It can be confusing, so we'll clear things up.

A contact insect control must touch the pest to be effective. It is applied to the pest and plant on which the pest is feeding. A systemic control is sort of like magic. Pests on all plant parts are controlled, even those not actually touched by the product. The systemic product is applied to the soil or foliage and the active ingredient circulates throughout the plant. A systemic product doesn't take effect immediately; it usually takes a few days before you notice anything. The active ingredient is the chemical in the product that does the work. Residual is the length of time a product's active ingredient remains effective. A systemic usually has a longer residual than a contact pest control.

Natural pest controls are tough on the bad guys, but friendly to helpful insects and other garden friends. These products include botanicals, biologicals and insecticidal soaps. Botanicals contain plant extracts that just happen to have natural pest control properties. Biologicals use natural enemies to control pests. Insecticidal soaps are similar to household detergents, but they're not to be used for cleaning dishes and silverware. Instead, they're loaded with pest-fighting power, and are meant to control insects and their relatives.

Craft show, flea market today

A craft show and flea market will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today (Sunday) at the Pontoon Beach Senior Citizen Hall, 3910 Highway 111 in Pontoon Beach.

The hall, which is handicapped accessible, is located next to the police station.

For more information or directions, call 797-5417.

GCHS reunion planned

Members of the January and June classes of 1944 of Granite City High School have planned a party for all graduates for the years up to and including 1945.

The "old grad" party will be held Friday, Aug. 4, at Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville.

A cash bar social hour beginning at 6 p.m. will be followed by a two-meat buffet dinner to be served at 7 p.m. The cost is $22 per person and reservations must be made by July 21.

Checks should be made out to: Old Grad Party, in care of Doris Thompson, 5704 Frodo Lane, Dorsey, Ill., 62021.

All interested graduates may contact one of the following for more information:
 Judy Stille at 877-1208, Esther Suva at 931-1432 or Doris Thompson at 337-2925.

Trip set to Rockome Gardens

The Granite City Park District will sponsor the fourth one-day trip of the season to the Rockome Gardens in Arcola, Ill., nestled in the heart of Amish country.

The bus will leave the Wilson Park ice rink at 7 a.m. Friday, July 14, and return in early evening. The cost of the trip is $44 per person, which includes the bus fare, entrance to the gardens, a family-style meal at the Rockome Restaurant and a step-on guided tour of the Amish settlement in the area, the largest in Illinois.

Rockome Gardens is made up of acres of rock and floral gardens with more than 100 varieties of flowers lining the beds throughout the season. The shops there contain the unusual and unique. There will be time to browse the grounds that will be featuring the summer craft show.

The trip is now on sale at the Wilson Park office. The full amount of the trip must be paid at the time of registration. Residents of the park district will have priority.

For more information, call Sue Champion at 451-1212 or the Wilson Park office at 877-3059 during regular business hours.

Blood drive slated for Thursday

Did you know that 800 people are needed to give blood? Be a lifesaver. Donate blood from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, June 22, in the Ketteler Gym, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave. in Granite City. The blood drive is sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Please bring your identification to the drive, because donors must be at least 17 years old, in good health and weigh more than 105 pounds.

Whole blood can be separated into plasma, red cells, white cells and platelets to treat specific medical conditions. It only takes an hour to donate a unit of blood that may save four lives," said Ruth Ann Gabriel, SEMC blood drive chairperson.

If you would like more information about the drive, call Gabriel at 798-3128.

Bar elects new officers

The Madison County Bar Association has recently held its election of officers for 1995-96.

Those elected were Mary E. Massa, an associate with Pratt, Bradford and Tobin P.C. in East Alton, president; John Hopkins, partner with the Granite City firm Bono, Goldenberg, Hopkins and Bilbrey, vice president; Mary Menard Nalefski, administrative assistant to Supreme Court Judge Moses Harrison, secretary; and Bonnie Levo, a partner with Tognarelli and Levo P.C. in Collinsville, treasurer.

Retiring president for 1994-95 was Donald E. Groshong. The new officers' term began June 1.

Reassessment offered to victims

Chouteau Township residents whose homes were damaged by recent flooding may apply to have their homes reassessed.

David Clements, township assessor, said field crews are now doing reassessments. To request a reassessment, call the assessor's office at 931-1136.

Any change in assessment will be for the 1995 tax bill payable in 1996.

School district receives $10,174 more in grants

The Granite City Community Unit School District #9, through its competitive grants office, has received an additional $10,174 in grants and donations during the past two months.

Dorothy Bailey, split-level third and fourth grade teacher at Marshall Elementary, received a $500 Monsanto JUMP START Science Education mini-grant. This was the second consecutive year that Bailey was awarded this mini-grant.

Funding will be used to purchase Lego manipulative sets specifically aimed at teaching gears, levers and pulleys in the physical science curriculum.

Students will experience hands-on activities and then learn how to apply them to problem-solving situations. United Way awarded two $1,000 grants to the district. Marshall Elementary School will use its $1,000 funding for the school's Project SUCCESS program.

The objectives of this program are to serve students and families through the development of collaborative relationships with health care and social service agencies in the community and to encourage parent participation not only in their children's education but also in their own self-improvement.

The junior high school DARE program will earmark its $1,000 funding toward the DARE officer's salary.

A Running Start Reading is Fundamental (RiF) — Chrysler Challenge Grant — awards $2,500 toward the purchase of a collection of children's books and special classroom materials in all first-grade classrooms in the district. Each child will be given one book to take home.

The Madison County Arts Council awarded a $200 fine arts grant for assembly programs by Ann Hagemann, drama specialist with the Illinois Arts Council, at Lake, Marshall and Prather elementary schools.

The artist shows the importance of integrating the arts with the Illinois school curriculum. She offers students an audience-participatory experience involving hands-on drama, music and dance instruction.

Additional funding from the Illinois State Board of Education of $2,434 to the already received $293,322 Prekindergarten Program for Children at Risk of Academic Failure Grant has been used to purchase equipment and to provide one bilingual staff member to assist bilingual students.

An additional $300 in funding is added to the already received $24,000 K-6 Comprehensive Arts Grant awarded by the Illinois State Board of Education. This grant is aimed at the K-6 fine arts curriculum development and teacher training, which will finalize the building of an elementary school arts education curriculum in drama, dance, music and visual art.

Two $400 IMPACT II Adopter Grants were awarded by the Illinois State Board of Education Scientific Literacy Grant Initiative. IMPACT II recognizes curriculum in elementary and secondary school teachers in Illinois who are dedicated to improving the quality of instruction in their classrooms.

A $400 Partner Award was awarded to teachers at Marshall Elementary School — Dorothy Bailey, third and fourth split, and Mary Osterholt, language impaired and learning disabled. The purpose of their unit, called "Hootin' Owls and Batty Bats," is to help students become familiar with the unique characteristics of owls and bats, their habitats, their importance and the need for their preservation.

In addition to classroom work, students will travel to the school district outdoor classroom for this unit. A $400 Partner Award was awarded to teachers at Coolidge Junior High School — Larry Carl, math, and Terry Yates, science.

Their program, called "Making Connections with 'Eggheds,'" encourages students to learn new ideas and solve new problems as they enrich their own thought processes and skills by drawing on previously developed ideas. Within an interdisciplinary curriculum, students will work with data while experimenting with growing different grass species in egg shells under various climatic conditions.

Wal-Mart donated $500 in support of environmental education to the high school Environmental Club to assist with projects to include a plant-a-tree program, recycling efforts or purchasing educational literature.

The Elks Lodge BPO 1063 donated $300 to the TMH class at Coolidge to be used for its consumer issues program and $50 for hearing-impaired microphone equipment.

during the day and at night.

"Wearing a helmet that does not block vision or impair hearing greatly reduces your chances of receiving serious head injuries in an accident."

"Learn to look over your shoulder without losing your balance or swerving left. Do not pass on the right. Motorists will not look for passing cyclists in that direction."

"When moving the same speed as traffic, ride in the middle of the lane."

The following laws and safety rules are particularly important for bicyclists:

"Always ride with the traffic flow, as close to the right edge of the road as possible."

"Use hand signals to let drivers know your intentions."

"Bicycling after dark is very hazardous. Bicycles must be equipped with a front light that reaches 500 feet and a rear, red reflector."

"Wearing light-colored, reflective clothing increases your visibility to other drivers."

Safety rules for bicycles may help prevent injuries

School is out and it is time to relax and have fun.

Bicycling is popular and good exercise, but it can also be dangerous. Each year 1,300 bicyclists are fatally injured and more than 500,000 bicycle-related injuries are treated in hospital emergency rooms.

Head injuries are the most serious injury type and are the most common cause of deaths among bicyclists. The most severe injuries are those that cause permanent brain damage.

Future shock

Budget action needed now, economists say

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Proposals to cut federal spending have been criticized on many counts. Arguments say such cuts will hurt children—today's and those yet unborn. But failure to rein in government spending will hurt those future generations even more, three economists conclude.

Simply maintaining current spending policies into the future will require unborn generations to pay the government 84 cents of every dollar they earn in tax, say Alan Auerbach, Jagadeesh Gokhale and Laurence Kotlikoff. The budget-balancing plans now being debated in Congress won't do much to cut that tax burden. Freezing the government's spending at today's level will cut the tax rate on future generations to 73 percent, the economists calculate.

The average tax rate for Americans today is 15 percent. Their solution: Significant and permanent increases in taxes paid by today's taxpayers, significant and permanent cuts in government spending, including Social Security and Medicare. Taken together, such steps would raise the tax burden on current generations to 44 percent, but that 44 percent rate would remain constant for future

'The generational stance of current U.S. fiscal policy is badly out of balance. It is impossible to avoid this conclusion.'

— Economists

generations. Auerbach, Gokhale and Kotlikoff are the leading proponents of generational accounting, a method of analyzing how the cost of government spending is distributed among generations. "The generational stance of current U.S. fiscal policy is badly out of balance. It is impossible to avoid this conclusion," they write in Economic Review, a publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland. Gokhale is an economist at the Cleveland Fed, Auerbach and Kotlikoff are professors at the University of California at Berkeley and Boston University, respectively.

A boy born today will pay $215,500 (in 1995 dollars, actual figures will be much higher) in lifetime taxes, a girl born today will pay $131,500 (in 1995 dollars)—equivalent to 84 percent of lifetime earnings, they calculate. Such heavy tax burdens "may depress (future generations') incentive to work, save and invest, thereby hurting Americans' living standards." In contrast, today's 25-year-old will pay nearly $200,000 in lifetime taxes, the 45-year-old $119,700. Those age 65 will receive $106,100 more in government payments, primarily Social Security and Medicare, than they will have paid in taxes.

To restore generational balance while maintaining current spending policies, taxes would have to climb 43 percent, "immediately and permanently," the economists say.

Cutting government spending by one-third also would restore balance. "Delaying policy changes to restore a generationally balanced fiscal policy (will) prove costly," Auerbach, Gokhale and Kotlikoff say. If Congress waits until 2001 to act, taxes would have to be raised 52 percent, spending cut 39 percent. If action isn't taken until 2016, income taxes will have to be doubled, spending slashed 73 percent. "Procrastination will only make the medicine more bitter," they conclude.

Nicol named agency VP

Jeffrey J. Heet, president of Cardinal Investments Inc. (CII) and Cardinal Capital Management, recently appointed Kevin G. Nicol of Granite City as executive vice president and advisory committee member of the firm.

Currently serving as branch office manager and principal with CII, Nicol is also president and owner of Kevin G. Nicol and Associates Inc., an independent financial services agency.

The agency provides clients with all forms of insurance and related financial services and, coupled with CII, offers complete financial and estate planning. Nicol's office is located at 1 Executive Park.

Urodynamic testing now offered here

Physicians at the Women's Center of Metro-East Ltd. are now performing urodynamic testing, according to Dr. Gerard J. Malnar and members of the medical staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City. "Women on the East Side no longer have to go to St. Louis for diagnostic testing related to urinary incontinence," Malnar said. "We are happy to offer this service and convenience in our community."

Malnar, who specializes in obstetrics, gynecology and infertility, completed his undergraduate work at Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill.

He received his medical degree at St. Louis University Medical School in St. Louis; and his residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. He is trained in the latest techniques in surgery, microsurgery and operative laparoscopy.

Dr. J. Moon Kim and Dr. Vernon Maes also have a practice in the Women's Center. Kim received his medical degree from the University of Missouri—Kansas City School of Medicine in Kansas City, Mo. He remained there to complete his residency in obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Missouri—Kansas City Truman Medical School St. Luke's Hospital program. He is trained in the latest techniques of laparoscopic surgery and high risk obstetrics. He is a junior fellow with the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecologists.

Maes received his undergraduate degree at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy in St. Louis. He earned his medical degree at the University of Health Sciences College of Osteopathic Medicine in Kansas City, Mo.

After completing a transitional year of medicine at Phelps County Regional Medical Center in Rolla, Mo., he completed his residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. He is trained in the most recent techniques of laparoscopic and microsurgical and pelvic reconstructive surgery.

Three agents join Millionaire Club

Agents Bill Frazier and retired agent Joe Hassler, both active agents for the State Farm Insurance Companies during 1994 in Granite City; and Joe Hassler III, agent for State Farm Insurance in Wood River, have earned membership in the firm's 1995 Millionaire Club based on their individual life insurance sales during 1994.

The three just returned from a conference of the 1995 Millionaire Club where they joined other club qualifiers from all parts of the country and with the company's top executives.

Discussions were held on trends in the life insurance market, financial planning for families and businesses and an opportunity to examine and use some of the latest electronic equipment for their own offices.

Workshop for business managers

The Small Business Development Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer a workshop July 28 for owners and managers of small businesses who wish to learn more about pricing their products and services.

The one-day workshop will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Tract 31 on the Edwardsville campus. The workshop will be repeated Sept. 13 and Dec. 13. Registration for any of the workshops is $50.

Emphasis will be placed on understanding the impact that labor, business expenses and overhead percentage have on setting prices on goods and services.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Jane Bagent at the SIUE Small Business Development Center at 618-692-2299.

Stand

licenses and 27 had not.

Mayor Ron Selph said the Dixon situation was unique and that he would "get to the bottom of the issue."

Another problem, aldermen say, is an ongoing dispute between the Dixons and the city's building and zoning department.

Several years ago, the Dixons purchased a 30-by-20-foot strip of land on Namekook Road between East 27th Street and Propriet Avenue — across Namekook Road from the current site of the Tropical Snow stand. The Dixons petitioned to have the land rezoned C-4 commercial and said they would make the parcel a parking lot for trucks from their heating and air conditioning business.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, the lot is too small for any building. The Planning and Zoning Commission and City Council decided to grant the rezoning, ruling that parking was the property's "highest and best use."

But soon thereafter, the Dixons tried to open a barbecue stand on the property. The Dixons say in a letter delivered to some aldermen that they and their attorney were promised by Holts and Assistant City Attorney Ed Fitzhenry that they could put a building on the property. But the city ultimately denied permission because of the lot size and the decision was upheld in court.

Last year, the Dixons began excavating dirt and removed the sidewalk on the property — ostensibly to build the parking lot, which would permit them to transport without city permits. They have since restored the sidewalk.

The Dixons say they should be issued a business license and all the permits for a snow cone stand because they received an electrical license from the city.

But Holts said the electrical license was issued for a light on the parking lot across the street — not for the snow cone stand.

The permit was later transferred to the snow cone stand, Holts said.

"It wasn't here when that (the transfer) was done," Holts said. "That was when Scrums was the head of the building and zoning department. Scrums has since been removed as department head."

Selph was unavailable Friday but City Hall sources said Scrums was removed from the position as a result of the permit transfer.

Holts said that the Dixons have been forced to get permits five or six times and have been cited and fined in the past for failure to obtain a permit.

Holts also said he will "do whatever the council tells me to."

the proper board committee. He was joined by Trustee Mike Macek. Vincent also said dumping the rock had destroyed that part of the street.

"Realistically, that street was already ruined by the flood," Macek said. Presswood and Vincent continued to argue until stopped by Mayor Glen Wilson. Wilson stopped the argument when the two trustees began making personal remarks toward each other.

The second argument occurred when property owner Dan Brewer was speaking to the board. Brewer was complaining about business owners along Illinois 111 filling in wetlands. He said that action was partly to blame for local flooding, including his property.

During discussion by the board, Brewer was offended when Wilson laughed at another board member's comment. Wilson said he was not laughing at Brewer's problem, and went on to say that the village was going to have to seriously study the situation.

In a related matter, the board tabled action on a request by Julius Horvath Jr. of Granite City to allow landfilling at Todd's RV Service, 4165 Illinois 162.

The permit was tabled to allow engineers to look at drainage in the area. In other action, the board approved a contract with Dover Elevator Company for maintenance on the Village Hall's elevator. The contract will cost $70 per quarter.

The board also approved $300 for police chaplain Rev. Father P. Thomas Succarotette to attend the International Conference of Police Chaplains in Birmingham, Ala., in July.

•Trash

Echols said he added that Police Chief James Bennett has been trying to obtain information about purchasing used vehicles from the Missouri Highway Patrol.

The council last week heard complaints about problems in the Lee Wright Homes area. Alderman Victor Valentine said he has received numerous complaints about people urinating in public, and asked what could be done to stop it.

Bennett said police could make arrests if witnesses would be willing to identify the suspects, but unless witnesses would also sign statements, the cases would probably not hold up in court.

In an unrelated matter, Valentine said the city needs to consider regulating small churches in residential property. He said the city has trouble making sure small churches which hold meetings in residential buildings are adhering to proper building and sanitation codes.

Valentine said one resident is trying to organize a church in residential property near Blair School, but the residence may have sewage problems. "The house was a residential property he owned and rented out, and there were problems with tenants saying there was a bad odor," Valentine said.

He said the source of the odor had never been located. "We need to come with some kind of ordinance about churches," he said. "Nothing wrong with churches, but it's just a matter of them obeying the laws on the books."

•Shooting

were standing. Shots were then fired from both the Tracker and the van. According to police reports, Gates was positively identified as the shooter in the Tracker, while the shooter or shooters in the van were not identified.

Witnesses said the two vehicles fled north from the housing projects, but police were unable to locate the suspects. At about midnight, Gates turned himself in at Venice police headquarters.

The owner of the Tracker, a Jacksonville, Ill., resident, said she let Gates use her car to take a girlfriend home about at 9 p.m. When he didn't return, she went looking for the vehicle, and was told it was in a yard in Carver Street and that the police were looking for it.

When she reached the car, police had already found it, and she was taken to the police station, where she gave a statement and then released.

In a related matter, Mayor Tyrone Echols said he was planning to talk to LifeForce Paramedic Ambulance Service Corp. officials about a report that an ambulance crew refused to go to an unrelated call in the Lee Wright Homes area shortly after the shooting.

At the meeting, Police Chief James Bennett said all his officers were at other calls, and no one was available to escort the ambulance. Mayor Tyrone Echols said he would talk to LifeForce officials about it, but had not by Friday.

"I just think it is an isolated incident," Echols said. "There wasn't a police car to go with them." Echols said although it was not a dangerous situation, ambulance crews might be "justified" in being careful.

"I didn't exactly get alarmed (at the report)," he said. LifeForce operations manager Les Hawthorne said the report was not true.

Two ambulances were dispatched to that area at about the same time, one to the shooting, and another to an unrelated call, he said. When the ambulance crew arrived at the shooting scene, police informed them there were no victims. The other crew was told the victim had apparently been taken to the hospital by someone else.

My view

Wife plays games with socks

There is a great old movie starring Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer called "Gaslight." The movie is set in the 19th century, when gaslighting was still in use. In the movie, Ingrid's nasty husband tries to convince her that she is going crazy by changing things like the level of the gaslights, then claiming she is imagining the changes.

Don Miller

I have recently realized that my wife has been playing "Gaslight" with me for many years. Of course, she can't use actual gaslights; she uses a more maddening modern version of the game, called "Socks."

Now, each day when I get up, I put on two socks, one on each foot. I never wear just one. I never wear three. And, of course, I never wear more than one on the same foot. That means each week I wear a total of 14 individual socks, or seven pairs. I am absolutely certain of this.

Each evening, as I prepare for bed, I take off both socks and place them in the clothes hamper. Sometime in the following week, my wife does the wash and returns my clean clothes, including my socks. But the returning socks are always an odd number. Instead of 14 socks, she will bring 13 or even 11, but never an even number so they can be paired up.

When asked about the odd number of socks, she plays innocent, just as Charles Boyer did to Ingrid. "That's all there were in the wash," she'll claim, giving me her most innocent look.

After studying this situation for years, I believe there are only three possible answers to these strange happenings:

- 1. There is a Sock God in our Kenmore washer that eats one sock each week. I've checked several times, and if he's in there, I can't find him.
- 2. Socks are chemically treated at the factory to dissolve, one at a time, at regular weekly intervals. This may be a possibility, but a faint one.
- 3. After 27 years of marriage, my wife has a cache of more than 1,400 socks hidden somewhere in the house. Obviously, the most logical solution. I haven't been able to find out where she is hiding them, but I am still looking. I know I'll find them some day.

Of course, the game has had no effect on my mental ability. I'm just as sane as I ever were, er, was, er, whatever.

Letter to the editor

Parents need rights with kids

TO THE EDITOR:

If we are going to pass laws which make parents responsible for the actions of the children, then we need to repeal all the laws which take control of children away from parents by calling everything "child abuse."

Since parents no longer have control over their children because of the social service department of our government, parents should not be held responsible for what our government does not let them control in the first place.

Parents should have control of their children without the fear of being put in jail and/or having their children taken away from them because they correct their children in public. Parents cannot raise their children to be productive, law-abiding citizens with these unjust actions being taken against them with no justification most of the time.

We do not need to honor our children, but we do need to teach and train them.

GEORGE MORGAN
Stanton, Mo.

Letters policy

The Granite City Press-Record Journal welcomes letters to the editor. The newspaper provides the "Letters" column to give readers an opportunity to voice opinions on various items of interest.

Letters should be brief, preferably less than 10 paragraphs. Typed letters, or letters that are neatly written are given priority treatment. Preference is also given to locally originated letters, but letters from outside the area are accepted.

Each letter must be signed and include the telephone number and address of the author.

Only the name and city will be printed, but authors may be called for verification purposes.

The Granite City Press-Record Journal reserves the right to edit letters to conform with the newspaper's standards of style, punctuation, grammar and spelling.

Two students win Legion awards

Blake Smith and Julie Mills were awarded the American Legion Awards at the graduation ceremony at St. Elizabeth School on May 24.

Father Robert DeGrand celebrated the Mass. During Mass, Beverly Poole, principal, presented diplomas to the graduating class.

The American Legion Award goes to the boy and girl in the graduating class who display high qualities of scholarship, courage, honor, leadership, patriotism and service.

Smith is the son of Chris and Lisa Smith. While attending St. Elizabeth, he was a server, played basketball, participated in the science fair and was a patrol and a cafeteria worker.

He was on the honor roll, a member of Squires and was in the Knights of Columbus spelling bee.

Outside of school, Smith plays piano, guitar and drums and enjoys hockey.

Mills is the daughter of Paul and Joyce Mills. While attending St. Elizabeth, she played basketball and volleyball and was a cheerleader. She worked in the cafeteria and was a patrol. Mills participated in the district music contest with lab choir and a double duet.

She participated in the state music contest with the double duet. She also participated in a speech contest and science fair. She was on the honor roll and Student Council.

Julie plays piano, helps with her younger sister's Brownie troop and was a volunteer at St. Elizabeth Preschool.

Both students plan to attend Granite City High School in the fall.

Stacy Mertz graduates

Stacy Mertz of Granite City has graduated with a bachelor of science in pharmacy degree from the St. Louis College of Pharmacy. Mertz is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mertz and is a 1990 graduate of Granite City High School.

The college's 131st graduation ceremony was held Saturday, May 13, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral in St. Louis. The college graduated 193 students in three degree programs.

The St. Louis College of Pharmacy is a private, free-standing college located at 4588 Parkway Place in the Central West End medical district.

The college offers a full liberal arts program in addition to the pharmacy curriculum.

Area scholars

Culver-Stockton College has announced its president's list, dean's list and honor roll for the spring 1995 semester.

President's list students have earned a 4.0 grade point average and were enrolled in a minimum of 12 hours.

Dean's list students have earned between a 3.5 and 3.99 grade point average and were enrolled in a minimum of 12 hours with no grade lower than a "C."

Honor roll students have earned between a 3.2 and 3.49 grade point average and were enrolled in a minimum of 12 hours with no grade lower than a "C."

Christie Jon Hayden of Granite City, a senior business administration major, was named to the president's list.

Billy C. VanBuskirk of Granite City, a senior majoring in criminal justice, was named to the dean's list.

William J. Houston of Granite City, a senior communication arts major, made honor roll.

Butler University

Robert Haack of Granite City received a bachelor of arts degree in actuarial science cum laude from the Butler University College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Degrees were conferred by Geoffrey Bannister, Ph.D., university president, and the deans from the respective colleges on Saturday, May 13, at the Hilton University Brown Theatre on Butler's campus.

Cum laude is awarded to individuals who attain a 3.6 cumulative grade point average or higher or a 3.4 cumulative average and satisfactorily complete the Butler University Honors Program, including a thesis.

Parks College

John Gregory Carlson of Granite City received a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Parks College of St. Louis University in Cahokia. Commencement ceremonies were held May 20 at the Kiel Center in St. Louis.

Union University

Union University in Jackson, Tenn., has named Randall D. Scott of Granite City to the spring semester dean's list. The dean's list is comprised of full-time students who achieve a minimum 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Julie Lynn Simon of Granite City graduated with a record 480 seniors during a May 27 ceremony on the east lawn of Union University's campus in Jackson, Tenn.

Southeast Missouri State
Damon Yates of Granite City has been named to the dean's list at Southeast Missouri State University for academic achievement during the spring 1995 semester.

Students named to the list earned at least a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale and completed at least 12 degree credit hours during the spring session.

Pointing to the future

Youths set for 'houseboat retreat'

Lucille Martin covers the Pontoon Beach scene for the Press-Record Journal. She can be contacted at 831-0731.

Ruth King has returned home from a vacation in Reno, Nev., where she visited her son, Roy, and his fiancé, Judy Broszefko. Upon her arrival on May 22, all her friends held a welcome party for her. During her visit, she took many sightseeing trips. The group went to San Francisco, rode the cable cars, took a cruise under the Golden Gate Bridge into Alcatraz and saw Angle Island (the former Ellis Island). The group also visited the Army installation; Persimmon, where the first Russian and German immigrants arrived; and the beautiful sights of the Golden Gate Park, among other historical sites.

Near Sacramento, Calif., the group visited the quaint city of Old Auburn, enjoyed seeing the antiques and tasting the various foods. In Virginia City, they saw where the first lode of gold was mined under the city.

Lucille Martin

After returning to Nevada, the group saw several shows and sights in Carson City, the capital.

The youth of Pontoon Baptist Church are preparing all the last-minute arrangements for a "houseboat retreat," beginning on June 19 and running until June 23. They have been collecting cans for months and recently made $1,000 during a rummage sale.

The group really worked hard for this and appreciate all the help they have received. Approximately 14 youths are planning to participate. The retreat will begin each morning with prayer and devotions. At noon, devotions will also be given. The day will end with devotions and prayer. The group will be accompanied by their leaders.

The Senior Citizen Plus group will be taking a mystery trip on July 6 and 7. It is expected to be a "fun trip" because it is so different and unexpected.

The trip includes a dinner on the first night, breakfast and lunch on the second day, transportation and hotel room accommodations, among other things.

The group will leave Ramada Inn at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, July 6, and return at approximately 7 p.m. Friday, July 7. Call Senior Citizen Plus for more information and reservations.

Lucille Martin attended a family and friends get-together recently at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Joe and Marilee Verdu, at Red Barn Farms, near Millstadt. Games were played, horseback riding was enjoyed by the children and a barbecue and picnic lunch was served to 150 guests.

Menke's stock still on the rise

In 1989, after Belleville East won the Class AA state softball title, this corner credited Lancers coach Rita Menke for her enthusiasm, desire and organizational ability.

After all, how many coaches have claimed a state crown within eight years of becoming a varsity coach?

NOW, AFTER LEADING the Lancers to another state crown, a third sectional championship and four regional titles, Menke has stepped further from the words I used to credit her in '89.

This particular coach not only has become one of the most inquisitive I've met, but is more open to suggestions than most. No wonder then why Rita has been quoted as saying: "There is always somebody behind the scenes who doesn't get recognized. Our coaching staff the last few years has been outstanding."

Outstanding not only because of assistants like Fred Harth and Andrea Rudanovich, but because Menke also welcomes the work of Joe Nunez, the father of former East pitcher Mona Nunez.

Thus Menke's record of 327-105 after this season's state tourney should come as no surprise any more than East averaging 28 wins per season since '87.

The first lady of Lancers softball is sharp enough to constantly seek improvement and avoid resting with only what worked in the past.

EXTRA INNINGS: Another coach whose postseason ended one step from a state Class AA baseball state tourney appearance is Jeff Junker of Mascoutah.

The Indians concluded their season with a 14-10 record after a 2-1 loss to Mount Vernon in 10 innings in the Centralia Sectional final. But much of the credit goes to Junker for the season-long patience he showed with his team while developing two starting pitchers.

Disappointed when Mascoutah earned only a fourth seed in the Centralia Regional, Junker knew his pitchers — Matt Brendel and Jesse Roustio — were capable of stopping any team in the area.

Brendel struck out 10 and allowed just four hits in 6½ innings of a 7-5 sectional win over Collinsville. Roustio permitted just eight hits in 10 innings against Mount Vernon. A former catcher, Junker has shown he knows baseball, especially in stressing fundamentals on and off the mound.

FOOTNOTE: When it comes to coaching demeanor, O'Fallon High girls soccer coach Dave Ames gets my vote. Whether as an assistant to Hall of Famer Gene Bateman and the boys program at Granite City or with the O'Fallon girls, Ames remains a low-key type whose knowledge of soccer is passed along in a most admirable fashion.

When the Panthers took a 21-3 record, including 16 shutouts, to this spring's state tourney, the postseason trek was a tribute to Ames, who skirted off personal compliment in favor of referring to "team chemistry."

OVERTIME: When pitcher Joe Blasingim of Edwardsville was recently drafted by San Francisco, it was obvious the Giants were not concerned with the junior right-hander's 8-5 record this spring at Southwest Missouri State.

Blasingim struck out 87 batters in 90 innings and was consistently clocked in the high 80s by pro scouts.

NET NOTE: Should Waterloo Gibault basketball star Josh Tol accept the scholarship offered by Belleville Area College, the 6-1 point guard will face a challenge that is becoming more obvious on the community college level.

That is the step not just from high school to college, but the step from Class A prep ball to the collegiate level.

A three-year starter at Gibault, where he averaged 21.7 points per game as a senior, Tol should be able to put his speed and jumping ability to use. But his scoring ability will be put to the test at BAC.

Extra-inning rally lifts Post 365 past Triplets Field, Collinsville outlast Tri-City 5-2

By Garen Vartanian
Correspondent

A baseball junkie could not have asked for a better game than the one that took place in Collinsville on Thursday night.

There was brilliant pitching by both Tri-City Post 113 starter Justin Bettorf and Post 365 ace Matt Field. There was timely hitting, a batter's interference call which disallowed a run, a balk to bring a run home and a man thrown out at the plate to end the bottom of the seventh — sending the game into extra innings.

TRI-CITY (5-2) and Collinsville (6-1) battled into the eighth inning until Collinsville's Mike Radosevich sent the crowd home with a titanic three-run homer over the right-center field fence, propelling Post 365 to a thrilling 5-2 victory.

"This was just an exciting ballgame," Post 365 manager Steve Heimkamp said. "In the early going, all the excitement was created by the starting pitchers."

Field, using a mix of a breaking ball, a slider and an overpowering fastball, only gave up one hit in the first two frames while striking out three. In a contrast of styles, Bettorf used a sneaky fastball and a slow curve to keep the Collinsville hitters off balance. Bettorf matched Field's scoreless two innings, surrendering only two hits and striking out one.

POST 113 WAS the first to dent the scoreboard, pushing a run across in the top of the third. Joe Zellerman led off with a single and went second on a wild pitch. After Matt Krause failed to move Zellerman to third, Shain Kuehnell followed with a sharp single to right, putting runners at the corners.

With No. 2 hitter Mike Kalips batting, it looked as if Tri-City had stolen a run. As Kuehnell attempted to swipe second, Collinsville catcher Greg Boyer threw the ball into center field, apparently scoring Zellerman for the game's first run.

However, a bizarre batter's interference call nullified the run. But Jason Wood delivered a two-out RBI single. After Collinsville failed to score in the bottom of the inning, Tri-City added to its lead in the fourth.

Move to GCC helps make camp a success

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Several Warrior veterans and a wave of perfect weather helped kick off Granite City soccer coach Gene Baker's annual Warrior Camp this week at Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus.

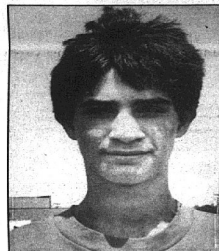

The five-day camp, open to players ages 7-18, attracted 110 participants to GCC. It was moved from its location in previous years, Granite City High School, allowing players to run drills throughout the 11-field Granite City Elks complex.

"It's ideal," Baker said of the new site Friday during the final day of the camp. "It's spacious, and the fields are in such good condition because of all the rain. We've been real lucky with the weather."

THE CAMP WAS conducted by Baker and the rest of the GCHS soccer staff. Virgil Kirksey, Dave Ames and Alan Harris. Several current or former college players provided instruction along with a handful of recent GCHS graduates.

Mike Bristol, Corey Kessler and Staci Dowdy, who played for the boys and girls soccer teams last year at GCHS, worked the camp along with former players Beth Rapoff, Tammy Dutko, Jared Reifery, Mark McKeehan, Matt Cridler and Eric Davis.

"We've always had enough help, and this year we have a great staff," Baker said. "It's been a good camp. I think we've got more young kids than we've ever had and we have more girls, which is good.

"They look up to the players who come back. Almost all of them, were in there at one time."

ONE OF THE older participants, Justin McMillian, was named MVP of the camp. McMillian is a returning senior who started last fall for the Warriors' state runner-up team. Baker said he is already looking forward to next year's camp.

"I've got big plans for next year," Baker said. "We're going to try to expand again and try to get in a big-name player to work with the kids."

Triplets' win streak ends at five

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Tri-City saw its five-game winning streak snapped in Thursday's loss to Collinsville. But manager Doug Winkler has few complaints after watching Post 113 win five of its first seven games of the season.

The Triplets, coming off Wednesday's 12-1 win over Cahokia, fell 5-2 to Collinsville in eight innings Thursday.

"It was a tough loss, but we played well enough to win," Winkler said. "I think we're playing real well. Justin Bettorf was outstanding."

BETTOLF STARTED, held Collinsville scoreless until the sixth inning and worked into the eighth before taking the loss. He allowed just two hits through the first seven innings. On Wednesday, he pitched the final inning in the Triplets' rout over Cahokia.

After starter Billy Niepert was touched for four runs in the first 2½ innings, Matt Tieman relieved and held Cahokia scoreless through the next 3½ innings.

"He shut them down," Winkler said. "Tieman looked tough."

The Triplets scored in double figures for the second straight game and were led by Jason Wood, who went 4-for-5 with two (See TRI-CITY, Page 4B)

Cox football camp brings home area's NFL veterans

By Tim Carley
Correspondent

Everyone knows how football fans in the area and members of the St. Louis Rams feel about the NFL team's move to St. Louis.

Last weekend at the third annual Bryan Cox Football Camp, current and former NFL players voiced their opinion about professional football returning to St. Louis.

ON SATURDAY, COX and several of his NFL counterparts gave instruction to 275 high school football players at Belleville Township Stadium.

The topic of the Rams' move to St. Louis was on the minds of participants and instructors at the camp. It almost goes without saying that they support the move of the Rams almost as much as the area football fans.

"I think it's just great that the Rams are moving to St. Louis," said Cox, who is an East St.

Louis native and linebacker for the Miami Dolphins. "All of us know it was because of (Phoenix) Cardinals owner Bill Bidwell that the team moved to Phoenix. The football fans of this area have already shown they will support the Rams."

COX'S DOLPHINS teammate, quarterback Bernie Kosar, also is confident the Rams will be well supported when they begin play in St. Louis next season. The Dolphins, in fact, will play in St. Louis on Christmas Eve.

"The St. Louis fans have shown how much they want football by their response to the Personal Seat License campaign," Kosar said. "I drove by the new domed stadium the Rams will play in next year on my way in from the airport, and that alone shows the commitment the leaders of St. Louis made to get the team here."

Among the notables are Cox, Granite City's Kevin Greene (Pittsburgh Steelers), Henry Jones (Buffalo Bills), Steve Atwater (Denver Broncos) and Alton's Craig Henrich of the Green Bay Packers.

FORMER DEFENSIVE BACK for East St. Louis Assumption High School and the San Francisco 49ers, Eric Wright, was an instructor at the camp. He said area players will relish the opportunity to play in their hometown.

"I can remember the great feeling I had when I came back to St. Louis and got to play in front of my family and friends," Wright said. "I know all of the area players felt proud when the Rams announced their move to St. Louis. They will no doubt feel the same way I did when they get to come back and play."

Of all the area NFL players, Cox is probably the most loyal to his local roots. This year's camp marked the third year he has organized it and let his school players learn from the professionals.

Cox eagerly awaits the day that he has the opportunity to return home and participate in an NFL game.

"To say that I'm looking forward to playing in my hometown is a severe understatement," Cox said. "It will be a great opportunity for my family and friends to see me play, because I have never played a professional or college game in St. Louis. I can't wait to hear the roar of the fans from a filled stadium in St. Louis watching NFL football."

on the sacrifice attempt, was well-pitched to second. An out by Brian Lloyd moved Ervay to third, and Field balked Ervay home to put Tri-City ahead 2-0.

Meanwhile, Bettorf was breezing through the Post 365 lineup. Heading into the sixth, he had retired 11 in a row. But after retiring the leadoff man of the inning, Bettorf got into trouble. Brian Muniz stroked a single and Rick Hawkes followed with a sharp single to left. Muniz moved to third and Hawkes took second on the throw to third.

Derek Johnson produced a run-scoring groundout to make it 2-1. Eric Parrill followed with a clutch two-out hit up the middle scoring Hawkes. Bettorf escaped further damage by striking out Radosevich to end the inning.

POST 113 WENT quietly in the seventh and Collinsville was back in business in the bottom half of the inning after two errors by Lloyd at second base. But Bettorf retired Boyer, and then Kuehnell ended the inning when he made a perfect throw to the plate on a hit up the middle by Brian Muniz, nailing Andy McFall and sending the game into extra innings.

Bettorf fanned Hawkes to begin the bottom of the eighth. Johnson followed with a single, and Bettorf was replaced by Jeremy Hoback. Parrill greeted Hoback with a single to center. Radosevich then came to the plate and Hoback quickly got ahead with two strikes. After throwing two balls, Hoback didn't get the call on a borderline pitch on the outside corner. On 3-2, Radosevich drove the ball over the fence.

EVEN WITH THE LOSS, Post 113 manager Doug Winfield was very proud of his team's performance.

"That was just a great ballgame," Winfield said. "It was a super effort by Bettorf. When we play well and lose, we shouldn't hang our heads."

Helmkamp expected a highly contested, tight ballgame. "We figured it would be a low-scoring game," Helmkamp said. "But it took us a while to get going, and it seems sometimes we need to fall behind before we get excited."

Winfield said a heartbreaking loss such as Thursday's won't affect the team's confidence.

"I think we've already gotten our confidence," Winfield said. "To lose to Collinsville in extra innings is nothing to be ashamed of."

For Helmkamp, the victory could not have been any sweeter.

"They are one of our favorite teams to beat," Helmkamp said. "Tri-City always has a lot of pride and is always good. We're very happy to beat them."

Both teams were scheduled to be in action Saturday, with Tri-City taking on Alton and Collinsville facing Troy.

Early preparation pays off later in outdoors

"Be Prepared."

That simple Boy Scouts of America motto has stuck with us for a long, long time. I remember hearing it when I first became a Cub Scout — never mind how many years ago!

Unfortunately, it is not a bit of advice most of us seem to comprehend. Even if we do understand what it means, the average American certainly doesn't practice the credo of being prepared.

This is particularly true of those of us who enjoy the outdoors.

For example, I've taken to hunting with a muzzle-loading rifle in recent years. This isn't because I dislike modern firearms or because I've become caught up in recreating the hunting equipment and techniques of our forefathers. I honestly prefer modern clothing and equipment.

However, time constraints in November make the muzzle-loading deer season, with its extra time in early December, much more advantageous for my personal schedule. I've got two nice muzzle-loading rifles, both replicas of the famous 18th-century rifles built here in St. Louis during the famed mountain man era of the early to middle 18th century.

Unfortunately, these old rifles aren't what they used to be. One rifle has modern-style open sights, the other a copy of an aperture or peep sight that was used back in the late 1700s or early 1800s. Both rifles, one a 50 caliber and the other a 55 caliber, shoot very well on the range.

But when I get into the woods, especially early in the morning late in the evening when the light isn't all it should be, I have difficulty hitting things.

I've decided that for hunting I need to shift a telescopic sight, which enhances dim light and, when properly chosen, gives a small amount of magnification. In addition, the reticule of a telescopic sight requires the hunter to line up only three objects — the eye, the reticule and the target animal. Any type of metallic sight, open or peep, requires the alignment of four things — the eye, the rear sight, the front sight and the target animal.

And that fourness is tough on older or troubled eyes. I've got both.

However, most of the scopes I've seen mounted on traditional muzzle-loading cap lock or flintlock rifles either cause a problem with cocking the hammer or of the long eye-relief pistol sight designs. I don't like either problem.

In the last few years, a different type of muzzle-loading rifle has hit the market. This style has an in-line cap lock, which means the rifle looks like a modern rifle except the hammer or nipple which accepts the cap is enclosed in an area where the chamber would be on a modern rifle.

These guns handle very well. They have fast lock time, which means when the trigger falls, they go "bang" instantly. And these rifles tend to have a greater accuracy than the more traditional rifles.

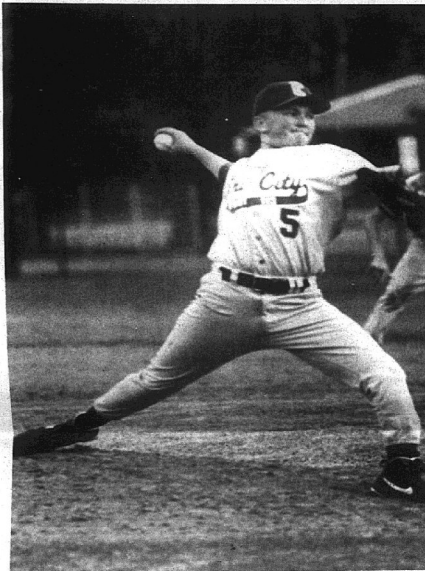

In addition, because of the in-line style of the receiver, a telescopic sight will mount on them as efficiently and slickly as it does on a modern bolt action rifle.

Considering all of that, I guess I need (I hope my wife reads this and notices the word "Need") a new black powder rifle, topped with a scope.

So what does all this have to do with being prepared? It's now the middle of June. It is time to be doing the research into brands, calibers, styles, scopes and all of the other details involved. Late October or early November is not the time to do this.

Doing all of this now will allow me to take the rifle to the range for some practice, to work up the best load for that specific rifle, to get the sights perfectly in tune with that specific rifle and to generally become very familiar with the firearm. When a big buck is ambling down the trail toward you isn't the time to be figuring out how a safety works, where the rifle will hit at 75 yards if it is sighted in for 100 yards and so forth.

But selecting and tuning a new gun isn't the only thing we all must do to prepare for the upcoming hunting season. Many folks need to attend a Hunter Education course so they can purchase their hunting permits (See SEIBEL, Page 4B) in Missouri or some other state. Volunteer Hunter Education instructors reported turnouts for early June classes across the Metro Area were very light. But in late August and again in late October or early November, thousands of people will be trying to get into a last-minute class. And they'll be screaming when those classes are full.

The instructors warn that there won't be any classes on the last weekend in October or in early November because they also need time to make preparations and do their scouting for deer season, to do a little fall squirrel or turkey hunting, to hunt ducks and geese or whatever critters are in season that they want to hunt. They urge everyone to prepare now for the upcoming season.

Waiting until the last minute usually means having small details overlooked, equipment forgotten and therefore a less-than-perfect time asid. We wait too long for these seasons to roll around and they go by too quickly to settle for less than top notch performance.

So "Be Prepared." And the way to do that is to start getting prepared — now!

runs batted in. Wood scored five times in Tuesday's 15-3 victory over East St. Louis.

Tri-City was scheduled to play Alton on Saturday and will face Highland in its next game at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at home. The Triplets are also scheduled to play Belleville at home Wednesday, and will then host the Round-Robin Tournament next weekend.

The three-team field includes Carlyle, Pleasant Plains and Florissant. Mo. Carlyle and Florissant will kick off the tournament at 5:45 p.m. Friday at Varsity Field, followed by a game between the Triplets and Pleasant Plains.

Tri-City will play Carlyle at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and then close out the tournament at 7:15 p.m. Saturday against Florissant.

Sooner State Boys here today

In celebration of their fifth anniversary, Harvest Assembly, 4598 Highway 162 in Ponton Beach, will be having a special evening with the Sooner State Boys, a southern gospel trio, at 6 p.m. Sunday, June 18.

In early 1994, Dale McCoy, charter member of the original Sooner State Boys, sensed the need for a gospel singing group that "knew how to do it and would do it for reasons that were right" — the reason being to bring glory to God and encourage the church.

McCoy got clearance to use the Sooner State Boys name. He contacted Mack Taunton, former first tenor with the Cathedral Quartet, and Gary Stevens, formerly with Trinity, and the Sooner State Boys legacy was reborn on March 13, 1994.

Since then, the Sooner State Boys have produced, recorded and released seven cassette albums; they are presently working on two videos and their eighth cassette with corresponding compact disc release.

Pastor Roy A. Boyer extends an invitation to all to come and celebrate with the congregation of Harvest Assembly. For additional information, call the church office at 891-2500.

Briefly

Erin Tongay has been selected as the recipient of a special summer art scholarship at Washington University Fine Arts Institute. This scholarship is made available by the Nameoki Women's Club and the Granite City High School Scholarship Foundation. Only one student who has a strong interest in art is selected each year for this honor and opportunity. Tongay, the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Perry Tongay, has participated in high school art shows and local art showings and received honorable mention a number of times for her work. She was recently initiated into the National Honor Society and is a member of the Warrior basketball and softball teams. She participates in the high school special river science project and environmental recycling programs, among other community service projects.
